

Meet your Tutor

ETHAN DOSSA

Hi, I'm Ethan :) With many years in the academic field, I bring a refreshing and dynamic outlook to tutoring. I'm currently a Computer Science student at the University of Pretoria, and I strive to tutor effectively by deploying a rigorous approach toward studying "smarter" as opposed to "harder." As the oldest sibling, a former house and volleyball team captain, and an individual diagnosed with high ADHD; I understand the importance of teaching with a strong emphasis on catering to a learner's strengths, weaknesses, and unique style of absorbing information. These were all key to my own academic journey, and I believe their importance to a learner's growth should never be underestimated. Outside of tutoring, I love going on hikes, programming, and swimming. My current hyperfixation is nanotechnology.
