CHARLOTTE MOSTERT

Hi, I'm Charlotte.

I'm a final-year Chemical Engineering student with a strong passion for problem solving and helping others understand challenging concepts. Through my studies, I've developed a structured and logical approach to tackling complex problems. I enjoy sharing these skills with students to help them build both understanding and confidence so that they can think through problems independently.

Outside of academics, I enjoy staying active and spending time outdoors. I love running, cooking, and reading in my spare time.
