

Meet your Tutor

CAITLIN SMITH

Hi, I'm Caitlin. I'm currently studying BSc Biomedicine and have a passion for science and helping others understand concepts in a simple and approachable way. I have experience working with different learning styles and believe that tutoring should be patient, supportive, and tailored to each learner's individual needs. My goal is not only to help students improve academically, but also to build their confidence and make learning an enjoyable experience.

Outside of my studies and tutoring, I enjoy baking, reading, and hiking. I'm also passionate about biology, microbiology, and healthcare, and I love learning about how science can be applied to make a difference in people's lives.
