AKHONA KUNENE

My name is Akhona Kunene, and as a former student of an all-boys school, I understand the academic, sporting, and personal challenges that many boys face throughout their school years. I offer tutoring in Life Sciences for all grades, English for all grades, and Mathematics for younger learners. Providing patient, supportive, and guidance to help each student build confidence and improve their understanding.

As a rugby player, I also appreciate the demands of balancing academics with sport. I understand the pressures that student-athletes experience and am committed to helping them develop effective study habits while pursuing excellence both on the field and in the classroom.

My goal extends beyond improving marks. I strive to inspire every student I work with to believe in their own potential, recognize that their ambitions are not limited by their circumstances, and understand that with right support, they are capable of achieving anything they set their minds to.
